

When Life Awakes And Dawns At Every Line

inspired by Alexander Pope the complete madness of being is prevented by the striving of my words, i believe in the beauty of the world the total hypocrisy of my spiritual life is prevented by the longing of my words,

i believe in the beauty of the world the undivided gathering of wasps' nests is made sacred by the penetration of my words,

i believe in the beauty of the world

the eternal insurgence of meaninglessness is prevented by the appearance of my words,
i believe in the beauty of the world the ever-decaying axiom of genius is prevented by the simplicity of my words,

i believe in the beauty of the world

Where life wakes, and dawns at every line

the complete madness of being
is prevented by the striving of my words,
i believe in the beauty of the world
i believe in the beauty of the world
i believe in the beauty of the world

Alexander Pope, Miscellaneous Epistles:

<http://books.google.com/books?>

id=LFkZAAAYAAJ&printsec=toc&source=gbs\_navlinks\_s#v=onepage&q=&f=false